10:30-11:45am: Embracing Disruption

The world of publishing has been officially disrupted. The days of taking orders are gone as more and more competitors enter into our market. Even finding talent is becoming more and more challenging as Boomers leave the workforce and fewer and less experienced Gen Z's move in to replace them. Being a publisher in 2020 is nothing like it used to be. Disruption is the norm.

Maybe it's time to do a little disrupting of our own using our best assets: our team, our audience, and our knowledge of our niche industry. It's time to let go of the past and pivot your organization to the future.

We are going to roll up our sleeves. We are going to start by focusing on your team. We are going to talk about finding hidden talent from the most surprising place (hint: they already work for you). We are going to talk about processes and systems that you can implement to improve your culture, improve your content, and improve your service to advertisers. We are going to talk about your business model and how understanding your financials can help lead you to the future.

The bottom line is that we are going to share ideas, best practices, and get our hands dirty. Joining us as a facilitator will be Don Harkey, CEO of People Centric Consulting Group. Don's team works with publishers across the country helping them to find the best versions of themselves through systems that support a strong culture.

It's time to embrace the disruption and design a proactive and profitable business.
